

AFTER BEING SHOT IN THE FACE, IT'S A KICK IN THE TEETH.

Senior Constable Brett Gibbons was shot point-blank in the face while on duty. He will carry the scars for the rest of his life but now the Weatherill Government wants him to carry the financial burden of ongoing medical expenses too.

Changes to the return-to-work legislation will mean injured officers will be stripped of their entitlements.

Every day South Australian police officers like Brett put their lives on the line to protect us. This new legislation will penalise them for doing so.

After being shot in the face, this is a kick in the teeth.

Go to protectourcops.com.au for more information and to sign the petition to get this unfair legislation amended.

LET'S PROTECT THOSE WHO PROTECT US.
